

There are many distinct reasons that I subscribe to XM radio. Some of these reasons are as follows: Continuous coverage in the rural areas that I travel on a daily basis

Clear reception

Wide variety of content to choose from

Minimal advertisements

Weather information on a continuous basis

If the NAB were to provide these services, the need for media like XM would not be growing as it is. Maybe this should be a wakeup call to the NAB and they should do something to please their audience instead of asking the government to change the rules to eliminate their competition so they can keep on providing the trash that is currently available.
